

Los Angeles Herald, Volume XXXI, Number 165, 12 March 1904

A well known New York theater man, formerly of San Francisco, is about to undergo a surgical operation for the removal of his tongue. Cancer of the member, caused by excessive smoking, necessitated its removal. Henceforth he will be speechless, almost sure of ultimate death from cancer, and all because he has been a slave to the weed. Moral—
